Being AP

Genre: Biography
Director: Anthony Wonke
Status: Completed

Synopsis: Undoubtedly one of Northern Ireland's greatest ever sportsmen, the story of AP's final season is a fascinating mix of sacrifice, doubt, decisions, triumphs and failures, injury and ultimately, finding a way to leave the stage. With unprecedented access to a top athlete, the film tracks all the elements that make up McCoy's life. We see him in action at racecourses across the UK and Ireland. We are with him at the Cheltenham Festival and Aintree. We see him struggling with injury at home, setting himself new targets and grappling with the decision whether to retire or not. We track the successful early part of the season, when AP harbours the outrageous idea of riding 300 winners in a season. We see the shattering effect of injury on body and psyche. We witness the torment of deciding whether this is to be his last season, and we are there as he goes through the public agony of playing out his retirement in public. And then it's no more. Our cast is the team around him; the billionaire owner, JP McManus, the trainers, the fellow jockeys that make up that unique band of brothers, and above all, his wife Chanelle, who has lived through everything at his side. This is far from just being a story about racing, although there will certainly never be another AP McCoy. It is about universal themes, recognisable to the widest audience; relationships, decisions, sacrifices.

Synopsis: Bobby explores the remarkable true story of English footballing legend and World Cup Winning Captain, Bobby Moore. A footballer, a father, a cultural icon and a footballing legend, Bobby Moore was a hero to successive generations of footballers and football fans alike, described by Pele as the best defender he ever played against. At the height of his fame, not only did he captain his country to victory at the 1966 World Cup, but alongside icons such as The Rolling Stones, renowned photographer David Bailey and Sir Michael Caine, he helped spread the influence of British culture across the globe. From huge success on the field for both his country and his beloved West Ham United, to personal tragedies away from football – including overcoming a cancer at aged just 24 - Bobby tells in intricate detail just how this legend became a global sporting hero. A man full of contradictions, he was renowned for his love of a drink and a party, yet his stoicism, courage and single-minded approach to both his life, and his football, was second to none. Bobby will feature exclusive interviews with family members who knew him best, plus icons including Pele, Wayne Rooney, Roy Hodgson, Paul Gascoigne, Gordon Banks, Sir Geoff Hurst, with Russell Brand, Ray Winstone and more. It will also feature previously unseen match footage that has been unearthed following an intensive year-long search, including from that 1966 World Cup Final! With the 50th anniversary of England's famous World Cup win approaching, there has never been a better time to explore and reappraise the impact of a man who influenced and inspired the beautiful game like few others.

Synopsis: The Bolshoi. Symbol of Russia, a national treasure – mystical and intriguing. Recently, however, the theatre has been in the headlines for all the wrong reasons: intrigue, personal attacks and management changes have created lurid headlines. Now, for the first time, the theatre directors have allowed a film crew access backstage for an entire season. This new chapter in the Bolshoi's story provides the background for a unique cinematic experience. From the two-time Academy Award-winning producer of Man on Wire and Searching for Sugar Man, BOLSHOI BABYLON gives a voice to artists and company members who are not usually in the limelight in irreverent and candid terms. Combining epic themes with intimate portraits, historical dramas are counterpointed with the untold personal stories of agony and ecstasy that lie behind every acclaimed performance. With unparalleled behind-the-scenes access, the film pays tribute to the dancers' extraordinary artistic and athletic talents, their abiding fear of injury and the ruthless ambition needed to survive in the world's most famous ballet company.

Synopsis: Law student and all round good guy, Harper, suspects that his scheming step-father, Vincent, is responsible for the car crash that sent his mother into a coma. Drowning his sorrows one evening in a seedy L.A whiskey bar, Harper is interrupted by a tough looking redneck called Johnny Ray who offers to "take care" of his step-dad for the cool sum of US$20,000. Angry, intent on revenge and fuelled by alcohol, Harper agrees to the deal and spends the rest of his evening downing shots with Johnny Ray. The next morning, Harper awakes to the mother of all hangovers with hazy memory of the previous night's events. Answering a knock at the front door, he is surprised to find Johnny Ray and his beautiful but distant girlfriend, Cherry, ready and waiting to drive to Vegas to kill Vincent. Harper's claims that he was drunk and didn't know what he was doing mean nothing to Johnny Ray who is more threatening than ever in the cold light of day. Harper quickly realises that there is no easy way out; if he wants to survive this, he has no choice but to go along with the plan. What follows is a tense and deftly constructed noir thriller in which Harper's story takes an unexpected detour, presenting the audience with two alternate versions of events with two very different outcomes. Synopsis: Hampstead Village, London. Famous for its beautiful and much-loved Heath – a piece of quiet countryside in a vast metropolis. Living on the edge of the Heath is American widow, Emily Walters (Diane Keaton), who can't quite focus on the things that need attention, like her lovely old apartment, her finances and even her son. Despite encouragement from her close friend Fiona, she doesn't want to admit that she's drifting through life without much thought to her future. One day while looking out across the Heath from her attic window, Emily spies a ramshackle hut, which appears to be inhabited by an unkempt man. She witnesses him being attacked by a group of professional thugs. Shocked, she calls the police and watches, through her binoculars, as help arrives. The next day she ventures into the woods in search of the man. Donald Horner (Brendan Gleeson) has lived quietly and harmoniously on the edge of the Heath for 17 years but now his lifestyle is under threat - his home is the target of property developers who've started using heavy-handed tactics to remove him. When Emily introduces herself, he is naturally suspicious and politely thanks her but rebuffs her attention. Despite his gruff exterior, there is something gentle and alluring about Donald and when Emily discovers that Fiona is leading a community initiative in support of the developers, she bravely steps up to take Donald's side in the escalating battle, determined to defend the emotional and physical livelihood of this quiet but unusual man - who has grown to trust her and who - despite his situation, just might be the man to sweep her off her feet. Inspired by a true story, Hampstead is a charming and funny life-affirming tale about how love can be found in the most unexpected places and proves once and for all that age is no barrier to second chances.

Synopsis: In 1972 the marriage of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor was falling apart amid the pressures of success, celebrity and addiction. With exquisite dramatic irony, they chose this moment to become co-stars in a feature-length drama entitled 'Divorce His, Divorce Hers'.

Monstrous Love is the story of that production, told by its hapless director. Waris Hussein, a suave but inexperienced Anglo-Indian TV director, has a glamorous mother, a beautiful family flat in London and a neurotic boyfriend – the Burton/Taylor job promises him respite from his complicated life as well as the chance to work with two of his childhood idols. But the reality proves very different, with the powerful leads battling one another at the helm. Waris seeks refuge in an affair with a handsome young German doctor who brings him perspective from the world beyond the insular movie industry. These encounters with harsh truths, both professional and romantic, form a rite of passage for the young director.

Hilariously funny and heartbreakingly poignant, Monstrous Love is a sensitive and nuanced portrayal of Burton and Taylor as stars, lovers and people. As an autobiography, it tells the warm and compelling narrative of its protagonist's development from idealism to maturity and offers a brilliantly observed depiction of the movie industry, with all its foibles. In presenting his story Hussein will recreate all the chic opulence of early 1970s style, with a muted palette and gorgeous cinematography.

Synopsis: An unstoppable plague is sweeping the nation... Our insatiable appetite for cheap consumer goods has pushed many species to the brink of extinction. Species that were geographically contained, until now. 16-year-old Alison Knight could never know that the burger she was about to eat would be the catalyst for an outbreak humankind is powerless to stop. The spiders, which entered the food chain through contaminated meat, infiltrated grazing cattle herds at lightning speed. It was only a matter of time before someone became infected. In warm, moist, safe flesh the eggs hatch. Millions of innocent people are walking incubators providing the ideal breeding ground for a terrifying arachnid invasion. From director Johannes Roberts (Storage 24, The Other Side of the Door) comes the stuff of nightmares... THE PLAGUE.
